THINKING OUT LOUD

By H. M. L.

Clair Engle, representative in congress from this district, if correctly reported advises that the gold mining interests of the United States, should establish in Washington, a bureau or agency to advise congress on legislation pertaining to the gold mining industry, after the manner of the silver mining interests which have so successfully maintained whopping prices for silver metal.

Engle probably did not realize when he made this recommendation that he was acknowledging defeat in all his own efforts to do something about re-establishing the gold industry of his district on a sound post-war basis. He has proclaimed in his weekly letters the great number of bills he has introduced for the benefit of the gold mining industry, none of which were passed, and we doubt, received any consideration whatever in congress.

As a congressman, he has been slightly more futile than congress itself. We must not forget however, that he did get one bill through congress, naming the debris dam at the Yuba Narrows, after the late Harry L. Englebright, whom Engle succeeded. Aside from this modest achievement Engle has marked up a long series of goose eggs for the second district, which embraces Nevada County, that once mined a fourth of California's gold.

Engle's remedy for his various futilities in Congress is for the gold mining industry to hire agents and establish in Washington D. C. a bureau to represent the gold mining interests. Up till now the gold mining industry has been leaning on him, and he acknowledges herewith that he is a slender reed to lean upon. He proposes to add one more to the various pressure groups that bedevil Congress and distort out of all recognition our representative form of government. He wishes that the gold mining industry hire someone else to do the job that he is supposed to do, but can't quite cut the mustard.

We note that Engle is assiduously advertising himself as a friend of veterans. He states he has voted for all bills designed to aid the veterans. We are with him there, of course, and hope he continues until January 1947, to be a friend of the veterans. To be a friend of the veterans nowadays, does not forgive a man, of military age, who neglected to represent the people on the field of battle in the late war. When his fellow congressmen volunteered for army or navy service, Clair Engle was not among them. We don't know why this is so. There may have been a good reason, but it has never been alvanced.

We doubt if there is any special virtue in being a "riend of the veterans". It is a virtue we all possess. It is like saying "I am an honest man." Every man is honest except a very small proportion of the population who are rascals. No American with wits of a bird can help being a friend to veterans. If it were not for the veterans, it is very likely this country would be on its way into a kind of slavery that a few million Europeans and a few million more Asiatics have recently experienced.

So when a congressman advertises and boasts that he is the friend of the veterans, our answer is: He had better be. The trouble is in the Engle case, he has nothing in his record in congress to which "to point with pride." So he naturally falls back on some such vote catching slogan as "Friend of the Veterans." We'll take it for granted that every man in congress is politically smart enough to be a "friend of the veterans."

Sheriff's Posse To Take Part In Gold Rush Days

Sheriff Carl J. Tobiassen yesterday stated that the Nevada County Sheriff's Posse is preparing to participate in the Gold Rush Days celebration in Auburn, on June 8.

Dr. C. W. Chapman is in receipt of a American Red Cross certificate of overseas service for his daughter, Miss Helen E. Chapman who has been serving abroad on a leave of absence from the high school faculty of which she is a member.

The award of the certificate accompanied by beautiful Red Cross gold emblem emblazoned with the word "overseas, read: "In recognition of the faithful and meritorious performance of humanitarian service overseas in the Second World War as a representative of the American Red Cross." The certificate is signed by President Harry Truman and by Basil O'Connor head of the American Red Cross.

SAWDUST PILE STILL SMOULDERS

Fire control assistant Nolan O'Neal of the Bloomfield district Tahoe national forest reports that the sawdust piles at the old Towle mill near White Cloud are still smoldering although the fifteen acre forest fire which they started was extinguished. It may be necessary to patrol this area throughout the entire summer us burning sawdust is difficult to extinguish and may flare up at any time.

The extremely dry weather this spring, if not relieved by considerable rain in the near future will mean hazardous fire conditions in the forest this summer. To cope with this situation fire control assistant O'Neal outlines three points for the forest user to remember:

Use extreme caution with fire and smoke only in designated areas or places or habitation. Obey the fire laws.

Report immediately all fires or smoke to the nearest forest service station.

Be prepared to aid in the suppression of fires. If fires start the public and private crews will undoubtedly be called upon to aid in suppression as most wartime sources of man power are not now available.

AUBURN ELKS LODGE WILL BE INITIATED IN G. V.

ENGLE TELLS WHY PRICE OF GOLD CANNOT RISE

Clair Engle representative from the Second Congressional District, addressing the Grass Valley Rotary Club at luncheon declared that the Bretton Woods financial commitments made by the United States prevented a general increase in the price of gold.

Engle recommended that gold mining interests establish a Washington bureau after the pattern of the silver interests. He stated he saw no immediate relief for the gold miner but expected that the long pull would be rewarded with success.

The representative stated that the federal government will not finance two airports for Nevada City and Grass Valley and intimated that the two communities should cooperate in selecting one.

He regarded lumbering industry as the dominant activity of Northern California. He said that congress is afraid to abolish OPA and that it would continue another nine months. He declared today's problem is to control prices and bring production to peak levels.

Specklemeyer Is Chief Whiskerino

Ray Specklemeyer was elected Chief Whiskerino by the assembled Whiskerinos of Nevada City and Ed Hewston was made "sheriff" of the Whiskerino court, which will judge those who cannot or will not grow whiskers.

Elected to preside over the court was Jack Townsend, "Sheriff" Hewston has appointed as deputies Swede Eckman, Bill Skelesky, Melo Solaro, Vern Gularte and Don Crawford.

Englebright rperesentative of the Second Congressional District who was most instrumental in obtaining appropriations for the building of four debris dams of which the Yuba Narrows dam is one of two completed.

March Gas Tax Totals $6,288,934

SACRAMENTO, May 16 — The State Board of Equalization revealed here today that California's March gasoline tax was $6,238,934 breaking all previous monthly records.

Based upon the boards assessment of 207,965,452 gallons of motor vehicle fuel the tax marked an increase of 41.4 per cent over the corresponding figure of a year ago. It was 24.5 per cent more than the March 1941 tax which had been the highest for that month ever recorded until now.

It was pointed out that this was the first time that the state gasoline tax had exceeded $6,000,000 in a single month. The board said that the upswing in the yield would insure 1946 highway revenues of more than $75,000,000 from this source.

Hotel At Graniteville Under New Management

Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Simpson have recently purchased the hotel at Graniteville. They have just completed some remodeling and are now open for business. Mr. and Mrs. William McLean former owners for many years will remain at the hotel for the summer.

SEAWELL ASKS FOR REASONABLE GOLD POLICY

ROSEVILLE, May 16—The nation must adopt a reasonable policy on the gold question, State Senator Jerrold L. Seawell said today as he accepted appointment to a statewide committee representing California's mining interests.

Seawell, candidate for the State Board of Equalization in the third district which embraces many gold mining counties said:

"The gold miner has had price control ceilings since February 1934 and his ounce of gold will buy 50 per cent of what it did then.

"Something must be done about this situation unless gold mining is to disintegrate. It is my belief that to a great extent the stability of this country depends on gold and California's contribution to the gold wealth of the nation has been one of the dominating factors in American progress."

The committee which Seawell has joined is temporarily headed by H. A. Savage of Fresno, president of the tri county council of the Western Mining Council.

In the plan to present a unified program on mining representatives of these organizations are participating in the effort.

Western Mining Council, Inc., Mining Association of Southwest; California Chapter American Mining Congress; Gold Producers Association of America and Dragline Gold Producers of California.

Top Soil To Cover Grass Valley Park

John Fontz, city superintendent of public works in Grass Valley asked the city council to place over the entire area of Brighton Street Park a layer of topsoil so that lawns and shrubs could be grown there. The city council is asking for bids for project, which it is estimated will require 3145 cubic yards of material.

The area covered by the park happens to be mine waste tailings. It is proposed to salvage much of the dredgings of the city reservoir sites on Alta Hill which has been accumulating over the years.

The council approved the Watt Foundation Memorial plan as submitted by Dan Stewart, chairman of the committee. The council announce that effective immediately its policy relative to sick leave, time off and vacations will apply to all city employes.

New Honors For Nevada City Hi Athletes

The Nevada City Board of Education has signed an agreement with Philip R. Bradley well known mining engineer and mine operator, whereby a trust fund is created by him to provide an annual trophy for the high school lad whose performance in athletics and sports is most outstanding each year.

Charles Elliott was appointed to hand the grammar school graduates their diplomas and Dr. B. W. Hummelt will perform the same service for high school graduates at commencement.

Senior Ball Will Be Held Friday Night

The annual senior ball of the Nevada City high school graduating class will be held tomorrow evening in high school gymnasium.

Chairman of arrangements is Mary Eleanor Hawkins. On her committee are Leona Lotz, Fay Williams and Beverly Scholfield. Theme of the dance is: "I Have Always Chased Rainbows". The rainbow theme will dominate the decorations.

The grand march will be led by the class president, Richard Davies and Donna Underwood.

GARDEN TOUR

The Nevada City Garden Club will this afternoon tour the grounds and gardens of Dr. and Mrs. Bernard W. Hummelt on Nevada Street.

The club will meet at the home of Mrs. H. L. Small on Nevada Street prior to making the garden tour.

AIR CIRCUS SCHEDULED FOR CITY'S AIRPORT

The Nevada City Chamber of Commerce met at an enthusiastic meeting set the date, September 9, 1946 as the time for putting on an air circus at Nevada City Airport.

H. S. Foreman, chamber president, named Gordon Tryon, chairman of the air circus, aided by Mrs. Harold Deeter, Tom Bowles, John Hilliard, Fred Garrison and Robert L. Tamblyn.

Between now and the date of the circus it is proposed to enlist flyers from all parts of California and to continue improvements on the two "scissors" runways on top of Cement Hill.

Charles W. Veale chairman of the recent benefit dance for the airport reported that the event had netted $1200.

George W. Gildersleeve turned over to the chairman of the Fourth of July committee, Frank Tilton $203.66 which Gildersleeve as the chairman in 1944 had left over after all expenses of the celebration had been paid.

Veale a member of the city council stated that a park commission is soon to be appointed and that much needed improvements in Pioneers Park will be placed its hands. Among improvements discussed were a backstop for the baseball diamond and play equipment for the younger children of the community.

MORE GOLD FOR CALIFORNIA

California earned its nickname, Golden State, from the virgin metal its mountains and streams yielded after the gold rush of '49. That rush brought besides gold seekers, many tradesmen, artisans and others who became the states first tourists—forerunners of later seekers after a different kind of gold—the gold of California's superb sunshine and matchless scenery. This tourist flow reached its peak just before Pearl Harbor. Restricted only temporarily during the war years, that flow now promises to reach new levels as the first peace time summer since 1941 approaches.

Last week the head of a national travel agency stated from New York that "thousands of travelers in holiday mood already are on the march, adding impetus to the start of the greatest vacation year in the nation's history; $6,000,000,000 will be spent in the United States by vacationists this summer."

Much of that will be spent in California. Many of this state's communities already are in the mist of campaigns designed to lure the tourist westward. Across the Pacific, Hawaii beckons to more tourists who must pass through California. Railroad, air lines and bus companies by their advertising efforts will direct many thousands westward. Service men and women, newly returned to civilian life are making good on their promise to return to this state where many of them trained, or through which many passed to theatres of war.

The stage is set for that other "gold rush" which will benefit all of California; every county thus becomes a new "Mother Lode Country." Mountains, seashore and sunshine are the irresistable lure which California dangles before travel hungry eyes of easterners. They will respond with a bounty that will benefit Californians in every walk of life, directly or indirectly. Truly will California's nickname, Golden States, take on a new lustre no less acceptable than that which shone from the gold pans of the early day prospectors.—Contributed.

NEVADA NEWSMEN TO COVER BOMB TEST AT BIKINI

Two of the six United Press correspondents who will cover the Bikini atoll atomic bomb tests July 1 are alumni of the department of journalism at the University of Nevada.

Robert Bennyhoff head of the Reno United Press bureau and Murray Moler intermountain manager for United Press in charge of an area comprising Utah, Idaho and Montana are the two Nevada men selected by UP for the coverage.

Only six correspondents will go from each of the three leading U. S. news associations while a total of only 165 representatives of all press services, newspapers, magazines, photo services, radio companies and motion picture and television outfits are invited to observe the tests and report to the people of the world.

Moler will be stationed aboard a ship and will cover observations and reports from that point, while Bennyhoff who has had many hours air experience as a navigator with the 8th army air force may be one of three newspapermen to fly in an observation plane. If he does not make the flight he will be assigned to the base at Kwalalein to cover the details of organization and observation from that spot.

The first test an air drop is planned for the first favorable weather days in July. The surface of subsurface tests will follow the air drop in three weeks. If weather conditions make it necessary to cancel the air drop the subsurface test will be made late in the month.

Both Moler and Bennyhoff took the University of Nevada jourialism four year course Moler finishing in 1938 and Bennyhoff in 1941. Both worked for the Nevada State Journal for brief intervals before joining the United Press staff.

Moler has been stationed at Salt Lake for several years first as bureau chief later being promoted to intermountain manager. He is married to Eleanor Barry also a Nevada journalism graduate.

During the war Moler served as United Press correspondent with the navy covering action in the north Pacific and landing with invading forces from the north on Honshu.

Bennyhoff entered the war in its early stages after a short time with United Press at various bureaus. He served as navigators of a flying fortress during the bombing of Germany and has been awarded the air medal with four clusters and four battle stars.

COMPLAINS GOV. NOW OPERATES BLACK MARKET

Daphne has me down to her brother's farm and I'm watching him sweep out the wheat bins. I like the musty smell as I peer in at him.

"Cy must be nice to know your wheat is feeding starving Europeans, I says.

"Yeah that part's OK but the raw deal the government gave me sure doesn't make me too happy."

"How come?"

Cy shifts his dead corn cob to the other side of his mouth leans on his broom and says:

"I sold my stuff last fall for $1.52 a bushel. The government said I might as well 'cause that was the fixed ceiling price and it wouldn't be boosted. Besides that I had to sell to meet that note at the bank."

"So?" I ask brushing wheat dust of my coat.

"So early this year the government raises the price to $1.55 and I see I've lost three cents a bushel."

Cy sweeps the wheat into a pile, then says: "But what gets me happened a few weeks ago. The government comes along and offers a 30 cent bonus to sell. That's 33 cents a bushel I've lost."

Cy gets a scoop shovel sweeps the wheat into it and then carefully dumps it into an old sack.

"What in tarnation is that for?" I ask.

"Just another result of swivel chair farming." Cy says. "I'm saving every grain and so is every other farmer with a head of livestock or a squawking chicken. You can't buy feed now."

"Looks like you're holding the sack, Cy," I says.

"In more than one way" Cy says slowly. "The government is paying $1.85 now but isn't permitting anybody else to pay more than $1.55. That means no feed. And if that ain't a government operated black market, I never saw one."

ENGLE DOES NOT VOTE ON BILL TO TRIM SPEEDING

WASHINGTON, May 16—Despite a solid Republican vote in the house of representatives GOP legislators recently failed to prevent drastic increases in the annual appropriation for the Department of Commerce for 1947.

Republicans including California Representative Carl Hinshaw, 20th District sponsored an amendment which would have deleted $4,945,000 from the commerce department budget. They said the amendment would prevent increased government interference with business by bureaucratic dreamers and planners.

California Democrats voting against the economy measure included Frank C. Havener, 4th district. George E. Outland, 11th district, Jerry Voorhis, 12th district; Ned R. Healy, 13th district, Helen G. Douglas, 14th district and Ed V. Izac, 23rd district. The move met defeat when the speaker broke a tie by voting against the economy move. Clair Engle 2nd district, George P. Miller, 6th district, John H. Tolan, 7th district; Alfred J. Elliott, 10th district, Ellis E. Patterson, 16th district, Clyde Doyle, 18th district and Harry Sheppard, 21st district did not vote.

Republicans pointed out that Commerce Secretary Henry A. Wallace was requesting appropriations to finance a gigantic program that had not yet been authorized by congress and said that his proposed business aids reached too deeply into the problems of individual management.

One Republican debating the measure said "we remember the day when certain things were plowed under and other things were killed off. He (Wallace) might decide to kill off and plow under too much of the small business."

Declaring that failure to reduce the appropriation would add to bureaucratic growth, Rep. Thomas D. Winter who introduced the measure asserted: "we better wipe it out or we are going to have business controlled worse than it has ever been by a federal agency."

Always cut flower stems at a slant so that they can absorb as much water as possible.

Ah! Yes. It is quite likely to come up on any Monday morning in any household that does not send the family wash out to be laundered. There is a nervous tension in air. Good Advice in Greeley's Time

BETTER STILL TODAY!

If Horace Greeley could look down upon the Northern California of today he would be content—his faith and vision of nearly a century ago justified a thousand-fold.

And as he saw then the unlimited possibilities offered by the undeveloped West, the canny old editor would find here today new promise of rich reward for American enterprise.

Northern California is rapidly coming of age industrially. We have the raw materials, the power, the fuel. We have skilled labor and an ever-increasing population. We have markets close-by and overseas. We have a war-tested transportation system to serve these markets.

Business and industrial men of the East are watching and studying our growth here. It was to keep this interest alive, to stimulate action, to attract new business and industry to this area, that your gas and electric company has carried an extensive advertising campaign to sell Northern California to the Nation. It has been a factual, constructive and cooperative effort in the interest of all Northern California communities.

LOOKING AHEAD

BY GEORGE S. BENSON

President—Harding College
Searcy, Arkansas

Why Argue?

Ever since V-J Day, which most Americans look upon as the end of World War II, we have all recognized a high clamor of communistic propaganda. With sound reasoning, a great many well-meaning people have tried to oppose it on the street corners, to no avail. It is like arguing with a headline in yesterday's newspaper. To be really effective, our opposition must go deeper, much deeper.

There are not many things that I like less or fear more than concentration of political power, government by men rather than by law, and official favoritism for individuals and cliques; and I'm not alone. I am convinced that an overwhelming majority of Americans feel the same way. Consequently I hope these few remarks may improve the measure of protection for us all.

Time for Action

Wordy arguments never contribute much to the world's progress or to any people's store of knowledge. In fact, taking a stand in opposition to another man's harangue serves without fail to dignify the harangue and call attention to it. Debating a false philosophy always helps it and, unless opposition is well handled, there's a danger of giving more help than hindrance.

The propaganda machine we hear so plainly has been chattering away for two decades. Promotions, good and evil, ride on the wings of news, and news is necessary. Publishers, columnists and radio commentators chronicle real happenings, day by day. Don't blame them. They perform an essential public service.

Find the Source

Of course there must be a few publishers who are unpatriotic, and writers who would stir up a revolution if they could, but these are not the nation's chief danger. When news is really poisoned, the job is done by those who make news, not those who print and broadcast it. Let us know the truth because the truth will make us free; free from our political enemies as well as other kinds.

Journalists tell me that news articles have value (i.e. deserve prominence) in proportion to the number of people interested. Thus persons in positions of power make news because a lot of people are interested in what these men think and say and do. If the rulings they decree or the opinions they express seem socialistic, there's nothing honorable for news men to do but tell the people. It's their country.

Starve It Out

Radical propaganda undoubtedly does this nation damage. I believe a big majority of Americans are wholesome people, love their country and understand what makes it the world's best place to live and most influential power. Just the same, poisoned news gains converts. And so long as men in power wish to gain more power, the campaign for collectivism will be carried on.

At its source is the best place to quiet the voice of socialist promotion. Men who hanker to boss the schools, control hospitals, limit production and eternally fix prices ought to be put where their every word and deed does not make news—out of power. There is a sure way: Stop the flow of revenue out of the Treasury into the hands of such appointed "rulers." That will start immediately and effectively to solve the problem of collectivist propaganda.

Veterans' SERVICE BUREAU

EDITOR'S NOTE: This newspaper, through special arrangement with the Washington Bureau of Western Newspaper Union at 1616 Eye Street, N. W., Washington, D. C., is able to bring readers this weekly column on problems of the veteran and serviceman and his family. Questions may be addressed to the above Bureau and they will be answered in a subsequent column. No replies can be made direct by mail, but only in the column which will appear in this newspaper regularly.

Administration Problems

While the Veterans' administration is still several weeks behind on various phases of its work, it has made tremendous headway during the past two months towards keeping its business current, according to Gen. Omar N. Bradey, director.

This tremendous agency is now handling the insurance, job training, farm, home and business loans, pensions and other features of veterans' benefits for more than 13 million veterans and a potential business of 20 million veterans.

To do this job it is short of office help, in medical help and in staffing its hospitals. Here are a few statistics as of February 1 showing how far behind schedule the administration is on handling its business—out of 500,000 applications for training under servicemen's readjustment act, 91,176 are in training, 258,781 have been declared eligible and the balance are pending; on insurance, the department is about 20 days behind and is now handling direct premium payments on 1,073,712 policies with 10,357,788 policies being paid by allotment; there are more than 2,000,000 disability claims on file with 1,567,000 adjudicated, 1,038,000 allowed and 458,000 pending.

This office has received scores of letters asking when they will receive pensions, when they will receive subsistence checks. To all such inquiries we can only advise patience, since we believe the VA is doing all it can under the circumstances.

Questions and Answers

Q. I have a brother in the army in Italy. He has been overseas 13 months. His parents are 65 years of age and have no one at home with them. Would it be possible to get him discharged because of his parents' age and health? If so, where would I write for particulars?—A reader, East Lake, Minn.

A. Application for a "hardship" discharge must be filed by the soldier with his commanding officer. It might help if the parents also filed all particulars with their local Red Cross, since the army asks the Red Cross to investigate the case eventually.

Q. Where would a person find out the details as to where wives of servicemen overseas are able to make application for transportation to Japan when they are permitted to join their husbands?—Mrs. L. W., Omaha, Neb.

A. The war department says all such applications must originate with the soldier who files his application with his commanding officer.

Q. I would appreciate receiving information concerning civilian occupations which may be comparable to assignments held by officers while in service, particularly that of adjutant.—C. R. F., Long Branch, N. J.

A. Your nearest office of the United States Employment service will have a list of occupations available.

Q. My husband was a World War I veteran. I filled out a blank for pension December 14, 1945. Do you know how long before I will get it? Will I get $45? How much will my two boys get, one 16, the other 14 years old?—Mrs. P. S., Lilbourn, Mo.

A. You do not give sufficient information. If your husband's death was service-connected, you might get $50, plus $15 for the first child and $13 for each additional minor child; if not service-connected, $35 plus $10 for the first and $5 for each additional child. If you have filed your claim and given all particulars, the Veterans' administration will determine the correct amount in due time.

Q. I am a disabled veteran of World War I with a 15 per cent disability rating. Due to this disability and heart ailment, am unable to work. How can I get this rating raised? It was granted in 1928.—W. J. E., Columbia City, Ind.

A. The VA says you should make application to the regional office where your original rating was granted for a re-examination. If the rating board says you are entitled to an increased disability rating, it will be granted.

Q. I have a son who has been in the army signal corps almost 33 months and my wife and I are all alone on a large farm. We would like to know if there is a possible chance of him getting home this spring, or if we could try to get him home?—H. S. B., Carlton, Minn.

A. I would say there is a good chance for him to be home this spring, since General Eisenhower has said all men with 30 months' service as of April 20, or with 45 points, will be home or on their way home by April 30 this year.

Uncle Sam Says

Atom bombs will soon be exploding over the Pacific Ocean in a naval operation to assure your security. At first glance, there seems little connection between atom bombs bursting over a fleet of ships and your continued investment in United States Savings Bonds. Think a moment, friend. Allotment of a portion of your current income for savings bonds is also an operation to assure family security.

MAN MUST LIVE BY SWEAT OF HIS BROW FORGOTTEN

By Ralph H. Taylor

A lesson which circumstances force mankind to recall every so often a lesson which is literally as old as Adam, is that man shall live by the sweat of his brow. Two current magazine articles deal strikingly with this theme. They are fact stories of men of different nationalities living under different forms of government—yet faced with the same problem and solving it precisely in the same way.

One story in the Rotarian Magazine has to do with 50 coal miners and their families. The scene is the Monogehela Valley in Pennsylvania. The story begin in 1937 when more than half the coal mines of the region were closed down, 30 per cent of the population was on relief and morale was at its lowest. The mine families were living in dingy, insanitary, spirit killing shacks.

Today eaach of those families is living in an attractive two story six room stone house of 11,000 square feet of floor space. Each house has a basement with fruit room and laundry facilities, central heating, hardwood floors, a lawn, a large poultry house, fruit trees and two acres of land. The miners are acquiring ownership by monthly payments of only $13.

What created that change? The beginning is due to two highly intelligent members of the Quaker sect. Clarence Pickett and Homer Morris. Through their efforts a 200 acre farm was bought and offered to the miners for homesteading. The rest of the housing marvel came from the sweat of men's brows.

Here we come to an extremely illustrative point in this story: At the start 250 families applied. The condition was that working together trading their labor and skills the miners were to build their own houses—build roads, dig basements, quarry and transport stone, put in water and electric lines. Many didn't stick it out. One man quit before the end of the first day saying he never worked that hard on WPA. No man had to be rejected from the project, the week ones eliminated themselves by throwing up the sponge—by qnitting.

Among those who stuck it out, there were no drones. All labor was swapped on an even basis. If a man loafed he was bawled out by the others at meetings of the community association.

The other story in Fortune magazine reports that the program of rebuilding homes in the devastated areas of Russia is going ahead far faster in the villages and farm areas than in the cities. Fortune's investigator estimates that of the millions of rural homes destroyed in the war two thirds may already be restored.

In the cities, apparently the Soviet government has failed in its building program so far. Two years ago the Russian government decided to build several factories for the mass output of prefabricated houses. None has begun operations.

To the contrary the peasant farmers who had lived by toil for generations and have little faith in the bolshevik utopia restored their homes precisely as those Pennsylvania miners built theirs. They pitched in together and did the job themselves.

And neither those Russian peasants nor those American miners received the slightest aid from public funds—nothing whatever from their respective governments.

Fortune magazine comments that the success of the pheasants program reflects the economic and social vitality of the Russian farm village.

It reflects more than that. It reflects the very antithesis of a flabby spirit of dependence of life by rule and regulation from above, that has been sapping the economic and social vitality of the people in many nations over the globe these late years.

In our own country men big and little, men who run farms or little businesses or are executives of great industries alike must mark time and wait for decisions in Washington before they can take action on matters of life which their forefathers decided for themselves. When wage earners think that they may some day need a new job it is natural, so far have we drifted, for them to wonder idly what government will do about it.

But the cycle must always come back to the starting point eventually—the reality that nothing but the economic and social vitality of the people themselves can surmount basic difficulties and build basic prosperity and security. No permanent substitute for the sweat of a mans bhow can ever come from any government for any nation—whether it be the totalitarian government of Soviet Russia the socialist government of Britain or the representative government of the United States.

Writer Complains Of PTA Practices

The Nevada City Nugget has no knowledge of conditions complained of in this letter, but believes the writer should be heard. Opinions expressed therein are those of the writer and not those of the Nugget. The letter follows:

May 13, 1946

Nevada City Nugget
Dear H. M. L.

I see by the papers at the next election we're voting for or against increase in teachers pay. I've always been for it until, with my husband out of military service we returned to Nevada City. Our youngster attended nine different elementary schools throughout the U. S. during the war years and we were PTA members in all of them. Everyone of those schools encouraged each child to take active part in all school functions regardless of whether the child was a newcomer or offspring of a PTA member.

We are utterly amazed to find that here in Nevada City elementary schools there is an exclusive group labelled "PTA members" who draw a distinct social line between children of members and non members, and who have the undemocratic and brazen gall to openly announce in class rooms that "children whose mothers attend PTA meetings step forward." This exclusive group is then whisked off to the auditorium to rehearse for school programs. What about the others?

I've talked to some of the little outcasts and to their parents. This stupid un-American discrimination is developing a feeling of inferiority—of not belonging—of a hatred for school on the part of these children to say nothing of the contempt of their parents towards the school authorities in general and of the PTA in particular.

Is the discrimination, perhaps, against newcomers, whether PTA members or not? Or is the objection to those parents who find it inconvenient or impractical to attend mid-day social functions.

What pressure is there behind PTA that makes membership so vitally imperative? Why the frenzied drive for membership? Why the humiliation and embarrassment to children whose parents fo some good reason of their own are not members or who cannot attend meetings?

Ask any active member what disposition is made of the percentage of dues that goes into the national fund (Chicago, by the way) and not one of them can give you the answer.

And when voting time comes ——!

Sincerely yours,
One of the many Nevada City Mothers who haven't the leisure time for mid-day tea parties, PTA, or otherwise.

Uncle Sam Says

Sixty-three years ago this month, Americans discovered a new way of joshing a neighbor who invested his money unwisely: "Go buy yourself Brooklyn Bridge." Brooklyn Bridge had just been opened. Some people actually turned over their savings to confidence men who sold them the great New York span. I could say to you today: "Go buy yourself a bridge," and I would be giving you sound advice. The bridge I have in mind consists of United States Savings Bonds . . . a bridge between the present and your future.

U. S. Treasury Department

Nice easy chair you have, friend. This is real comfort. I'll bet you are one of my nephews whose family life rests on a firm foundation of United States Savings Bonds. Every banker, every merchant, every spiritual leader in this community will tell you that I'm right. The first material possession any right-thinking, right-acting citizen acquires is savings. United States Savings Bonds are safe savings which grow in amount of $4 for every $3 invested at the end of ten years.

U. S. Treasury Department

Apple blossoms are blooming here in the State of Washington. If I needed another reason to impress you with the wisdom of buying United States Savings Bonds regularly, these orchards would inspire me. Every Savings Bond will bear fruit later in the form of a new home, education for a child, or realization of other personal goals. Your Savings Bonds grow to full richness in ten years, $4 for every $3 invested.
